Mark Scheme

8700
June 2017

Version: 1.0 Final

Mark schemes are prepared by the Lead Assessment Writer and considered, together with the relevant questions, by a panel of subject teachers. This mark scheme includes any amendments made at the standardisation events which all associates participate in and is the scheme which was used by them in this examination. The standardisation process ensures that the mark scheme covers the students' responses to questions and that every associate understands and applies it in the same correct way. As preparation for standardisation each associate analyses a number of students' scripts. Alternative answers not already covered by the mark scheme are discussed and legislated for. If, after the standardisation process, associates encounter unusual answers which have not been raised they are required to refer these to the Lead Assessment Writer.

It must be stressed that a mark scheme is a working document, in many cases further developed and expanded on the basis of students' reactions to a particular paper. Assumptions about future mark schemes on the basis of one year's document should be avoided; whilst the guiding principles of assessment remain constant, details will change, depending on the content of a particular examination paper.

Further copies of this mark scheme are available from aqa.org.uk

Introduction

The information provided for each question is intended to be a guide to the kind of answers anticipated and is neither exhaustive nor prescriptive. All appropriate responses should be given credit.

Level of response marking instructions

Level of response mark schemes are broken down into four levels (where appropriate). Read through the student's answer and annotate it (as instructed) to show the qualities that are being looked for. You can then award a mark.

You should refer to the standardising material throughout your marking.

The Indicative Standard is not intended to be a model answer nor a complete response, and it does not exemplify required content. It is an indication of the quality of response that is typical for each level and shows progression from Level 1 to 4.

Step 1 Determine a level

Start at the lowest level of the mark scheme and use it as a ladder to see whether the answer meets the descriptors for that level. The descriptors for the level indicate the different qualities that might be seen in the student's answer for that level. If it meets the lowest level then go to the next one and decide if it meets this level, and so on, until you have a match between the level descriptor and the answer. With practice and familiarity you will find that for better answers you will be able to quickly skip through the lower levels of the mark scheme.

The Indicative Standard column in the mark scheme will help you determine the correct level.

Step 2 Determine a mark

Once you have assigned a level you need to decide on the mark. This requires you to fine tune within the level to see how well each of the skills descriptors for that level has been met. Since responses rarely match a level in all respects, you need to balance out the range of skills achieved and allow strong performance in some aspects to compensate for other skills that may be only partially fulfilled.

The standardising scripts will help. There will be an answer in the standardising materials which will correspond with each level of the mark scheme. This answer will have been awarded a mark by the Lead Examiner. You can compare the student's answer with the example to determine if it is the same standard, better or worse than the example. You can then use this to allocate a mark for the answer based on the Lead Examiner's mark on the example.

You may well need to read back through the answer as you apply the mark scheme to clarify points and assure yourself that the level and the mark are appropriate.

An answer which contains nothing of relevance to the question must be awarded no marks.

Advice

In fairness to students, all examiners must use the same marking methods. The following advice may seem obvious, but all examiners must follow it closely.

1. Refer constantly to the mark scheme and standardising scripts throughout the marking period.
2. Always credit accurate, relevant and appropriate responses that are not necessarily covered by the mark scheme or the standardising scripts.
3. Use the full range of marks. Do not hesitate to give full marks if the response merits it.
4. Remember the key to accurate and fair marking is consistency.
5. If you have any doubt about how to allocate marks to a response, consult your Team Leader.

0 1 Read again the first part of the source, from lines 1 to 5.

List four things about Rosabel from this part of the source.

[4 marks]

Give 1 mark for each point about Rosabel:

- responses must be true, and drawn only from lines 1 to 5 of the text
- responses must relate to Rosabel
- students may quote or paraphrase
- a paraphrased response covering more than one point should be credited for each point made – though paraphrased responses must demonstrate evidence of identification of information that is specific to the focus of the question as required by AO1
- responses that copy the whole section of the text from lines 1 to 5 verbatim should not be credited any marks as this does not provide any evidence of identification of information that is specific to the focus of the question as required by AO1.

Note: The indicative content must not be treated as exhaustive and reference must be made to the selected section of the text.

AO2 content may include the effect of ideas such as:

- contrasting language to describe the view outside the bus and the passengers within it
- symbolism of ‘fairy palaces’ to suggest Rosabel’s fantasy world
- use of metaphor to convey the reality of Rosabel’s life.

You now need to think about the whole of the source.

This text is from the beginning of a short story.

How has the writer structured the text to interest you as a reader?

You could write about:

- what the writer focuses your attention on at the beginning of the source
- how and why the writer changes this focus as the source develops
- any other structural features that interest you.

[8 marks]

AO2
Explain, comment on and analyse how writers use language and structure to achieve effects and influence readers, using relevant subject terminology to support their views
This question assesses how the writer has structured a text. Structural features can be: at a whole text level eg. beginnings/endings/perspective shifts; at a paragraph level eg. topic change/aspects of cohesion; and at a sentence level when judged to contribute to whole structure.
Level	Skills Descriptors	How to arrive at a mark	Indicative Standard
Level 4 Perceptive, detailed analysis 7-8 marks	Shows detailed and perceptive understanding of structural features: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Analyses the effects of the writer's choices of structural features • Selects a judicious range of examples • Makes sophisticated and accurate use of subject terminology 	At the top of the level, a student's response will meet all of the skills descriptors. At the bottom of the level, a student will have Level 3 and at least one of the skills descriptors.	This indicative standard is not a model answer, nor a complete response. Nor does it seek to exemplify any particular content. Rather, it is an indication of the standard for the level. At the beginning the writer focuses on the private thoughts of Rosabel who is travelling home 'after a hard day's work in a hat shop'. Her social situation is immediately established as we learn she would have 'sacrificed her soul for a good dinner': she is poor, hungry and lower class. Time is then used as a structural feature as Rosabel experiences a flashback to 'all that had happened during the day', and the focus narrows as she reflects specifically on serving a 'girl with beautiful red hair'. The rest of the text involves the reader in the directness of their exchange through dialogue, and we witness Rosabel's public persona of a subservient shop girl in real time. Rosabel's external actions in this section, together with her earlier, more private, internal thoughts, now provide the reader with a fully rounded character. In the final line, the red-haired girl tells her boyfriend she is going to wear her new hat when 'I come out to lunch with you,' which takes us back to the beginning when Rosabel could not afford a decent meal. This circular structure manipulates the reader into favouring Rosabel, and possibly disliking the red-haired girl for her privilege and wealth.

Level 3 Clear, relevant explanation 5-6 marks	Shows clear understanding of structural features: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Explains clearly the effects of the writer's choices of structural features Selects a range of relevant examples Makes clear and accurate use of subject terminology 	At the top of the level, a student's response will meet all of the skills descriptors. At the bottom of the level, a student will have Level 2 and at least one of the skills descriptors.	At the beginning the writer focuses our attention on the thoughts of Rosabel, who is travelling home 'after a hard day's work in a hat shop'. We learn that she would have 'sacrificed her soul for a good dinner', so this immediately establishes the main character as a lower class girl who is poor and hungry, despite how hard she works. We then shift in time as Rosabel experiences a flashback to 'all that had happened during the day', with the focus narrowing to her serving a 'girl with beautiful red hair'. In the final line of their exchange, the girl tells her boyfriend she is going to wear her new hat when 'I come out to lunch with you'. This reminds us of the beginning when Rosabel was hungry, so the structure emphasises how very different the two girls are.
Level 2 Some understanding and comment 3-4 marks	Shows some understanding of structural features: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Attempts to comment on the effect of structural features Selects some appropriate examples Makes some use of subject terminology, mainly appropriately 	At the top of the level, a student's response will meet all of the skills descriptors. At the bottom of the level, a student will have Level 1 and at least one of the skills descriptors.	The writer focuses on Rosabel's thoughts at the beginning of the text, saying she would have 'sacrificed her soul for a good dinner', so right from the start we understand that the main character in the story is hungry and we feel sorry for her. Level 1 Simple, limited comment 1-2 marks	Shows simple awareness of structural features: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Offers simple comment on the effect of structure Selects simple references or examples Makes simple use of subject terminology, not always appropriately 	At the top of the level, a student's response will meet all of the skills descriptors. At the bottom of the level, a student will have at least one of the skills descriptors.	The text begins with Rosabel so we know she's the main character in the story, and we learn what she had for tea. Then she goes home on the bus and remembers serving 'a girl with beautiful red hair'.
Level 0 No marks	Nothing to reward

AO2 content may include the effect of ideas such as:

- the use of Rosabel's thoughts at the beginning of the source to establish her lower class lifestyle
- the use of flashback to make a distinction between her public persona and her private thoughts
- the circular nature of the text through the motif of food.

Focus this part of your answer on the second part of the source, from line 19 to the end.

A student said, ‘This part of the story, set in the hat shop, shows that the red-haired girl has many advantages in life, and I think Rosabel is right to be angry.’

To what extent do you agree?

In your response, you could:

- consider your own impressions of the red-haired girl
- evaluate how the writer conveys Rosabel’s reactions to the red-haired girl
- support your response with references to the text.

She has wealth, beauty and happiness, all characteristics of a privileged lifestyle, and the writer’s use of colour to describe her - ‘beautiful red hair and a white skin and eyes the colour of that green ribbon shot with gold’ - implies she is also radiant, vivacious and exotic. This is in direct contrast to the brown-haired Rosabel, who can only dream of being like this. I think Rosabel is envious and maybe even resentful, which is why her anger is understandable. When Rosabel tries on the hat, the key sentence ‘Let me see how it looks on you,’ is significant because, just for one moment, their lives overlap. In a way, Rosabel is being taunted with a symbol of another, much better life, but this is not deliberate, which is why her ‘sudden, ridiculous feeling of anger’ is not really fair on the girl. The adjective ‘sudden’ implies the fury comes out of nowhere, as if Rosabel has no control over it, and ‘ridiculous’ suggests it is unreasonable to the point of being absurd. The girl does have many of life’s advantages, but she is a product of her

She arrives in a carriage to go hat shopping, which tells us she's wealthy, and she has a 'well-dressed' boyfriend, all outward signs of success. She is also attractive, and the writer uses colour to imply how alive and vibrant she is: 'beautiful red hair and a white skin and eyes the colour of that green ribbon shot with gold'. She has everything that Rosabel doesn't have, and I think this makes Rosabel jealous because she recognises how unfair life is. However, the girl isn't unpleasant so I'm not sure that Rosabel is right to get annoyed. When Rosabel tries on the hat, her anger is 'sudden' and 'ridiculous', adjectives that show her reaction is unexpected and ultimately silly because there's nothing she can do about the girl having all these advantages and her having none.

I think Rosabel might be jealous of all the things the girl has that she doesn't have. - whether or not Rosabel's anger is justified.
