MARK SCHEME

Maximum Mark: 60

Published

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and candidates, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which Examiners were instructed to award marks. It does not indicate the details of the discussions that took place at an Examiners' meeting before marking began, which would have considered the acceptability of alternative answers.

Mark schemes should be read in conjunction with the question paper and the Principal Examiner Report for Teachers.

Cambridge International will not enter into discussions about these mark schemes.

Cambridge International is publishing the mark schemes for the May/June 2019 series for most Cambridge IGCSE™, Cambridge International A and AS Level and Cambridge Pre-U components, and some Cambridge O Level components.

This syllabus is regulated for use in England, Wales and Northern Ireland as a Cambridge International Level 1/Level 2 Certificate.

This document consists of 95 printed pages.

PUBLISHEDGeneric Marking Principles

These general marking principles must be applied by all examiners when marking candidate answers. They should be applied alongside the specific content of the mark scheme or generic level descriptors for a question. Each question paper and mark scheme will also comply with these marking principles.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 1:

Marks must be awarded in line with:

- the specific content of the mark scheme or the generic level descriptors for the question
- the specific skills defined in the mark scheme or in the generic level descriptors for the question
- the standard of response required by a candidate as exemplified by the standardisation scripts.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 2:

Marks awarded are always whole marks (not half marks, or other fractions).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 3:

Marks must be awarded positively:

- marks are awarded for correct/valid answers, as defined in the mark scheme. However, credit is given for valid answers which go beyond the scope of the syllabus and mark scheme, referring to your Team Leader as appropriate
- marks are awarded when candidates clearly demonstrate what they know and can do
- marks are not deducted for errors
- marks are not deducted for omissions
- answers should only be judged on the quality of spelling, punctuation and grammar when these features are specifically assessed by the question as indicated by the mark scheme. The meaning, however, should be unambiguous.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 4:

Rules must be applied consistently e.g. in situations where candidates have not followed instructions or in the application of generic level descriptors.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 5:

Marks should be awarded using the full range of marks defined in the mark scheme for the question (however; the use of the full mark range may be limited according to the quality of the candidate responses seen).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 6:

Marks awarded are based solely on the requirements as defined in the mark scheme. Marks should not be awarded with grade thresholds or grade descriptors in mind.

PUBLISHEDGENERAL INSTRUCTIONS*Applying the Mark Scheme

- When marking a response the overall criteria to be considered should be – ‘How good is this response to this question?’
- The ‘Level Descriptor’ should be used to decide the Level into which the quality of the answer fits.
- Exhaustive lists of possible facts are not given in the mark scheme, as there is often a choice of factual knowledge that candidates may use.
- WHERE EXAMPLES OF RESPONSES ARE GIVEN, THESE ARE NOT PRESCRIPTIVE, BUT ARE INTENDED AS A GUIDE. It is not possible to cover every possible type of response within a levels of response mark scheme and examiners are expected to use their professional judgement at all times in ensuring that responses are placed in the correct levels and given an appropriate mark within that level. If you cannot resolve the issue please contact your team leader.
- Marking must be positive. Marks must not be deducted for inaccurate or irrelevant parts of answers. In itself, poor use of historical terminology, spelling, grammar or handwriting does not affect the mark. The overall quality of the answer to the question should be judged.
- If a candidate reaches a particular level s/he must be rewarded with a mark within that level. It is not necessary to work through the levels.
- The full range of marks should be used. Do not be afraid to award full marks or no marks. Failure to do this will seriously affect the distribution of marks. Be prepared to reward candidates who show any level of understanding. The mark scheme starts from basic acceptable response. Where a band of marks is indicated for a level these marks should be used with reference to the development of the answer within that level.

Assessment Objectives

- (a) recall, description
- (b) recall, explanation
- (c) recall, explanation and analysis

Question	Answer	Marks
1(a)	Describe the events in Milan in 1848.	4
	Level 1 One mark for each relevant point; additional mark for supporting detail e.g. 'In January 1848 there were clashes between the people of Milan and the Austrian garrison.' 'There were tobacco strikes to deprive the Austrians of the tobacco duty.' 'An Austrian cavalry charge killed several people.' 'The riots grew worse and the Austrian troops were forced out of the city.' 'A provisional government was set up which asked Charles Albert for protection.' 'In August Radetzky re-entered the city and there was little opposition. Austrian rule was restored.'	1–4

1(b)	Why did Napoleon III become involved in Italy?	6
	Level 4 Explains TWO reasons	6
	Level 3 Explains ONE reason (Four marks for one explanation, five marks for full explanation) e.g. ‘Napoleon III became involved in Italy because he wanted to weaken Austria which had a hold over much of Italy. He felt if he could do this he would be able to replace it with French influence. This is why he reached an agreement with Cavour to drive Austria out of Lombardy and Venetia and set up a north Italian state. He thought that the new state would be a good ally for France.’	4–5
	Level 2 Identifies AND/OR describes reasons (One mark for each identification/description) e.g. ‘He wanted to weaken Austria.’ ‘He wanted Savoy and Nice.’ ‘He was interested in French interests and personal glory.’ ‘To destroy Austrian influence over Italy.’ ‘To extend France’s influence over Italy.’ ‘He supported the idea of nation states and of creating new ones.’ ‘He had fought with Italian patriots when young and still had sympathy with them.’ ‘He felt a united Italy would be a natural ally of France.’ ‘He kept troops in Rome to keep it independent and ruled by the Pope to please French Catholics.’ ‘The Crimean War had increased France’s prestige and encouraged him to be bold in Italy.’ ‘At Plombières his aim was to keep Italy divided in a federation of weak separate states.’ ‘He wanted to make his mark like his famous uncle Napoleon I.’ ‘In 1849 he sent the French army to crush the Roman Republic to protect the Pope and Catholicism.’	2–3

Question	Answer	Marks
1(c)	'Italian unification took so long because there was little enthusiasm for it in Italy.' How far do you agree with this statement? Explain your answer.	10
	Level 5 Explains with evaluation As Level 4 plus evaluation.	10
	Level 4 Explanation of both sides A L4 answer will have a minimum of three explanations (2 on one side; 1 on the other). This will be worth a mark of 7. Fuller explanation of one issue to be given two marks. An answer which only has one explanation on one side of the argument cannot be awarded more than 8.	7–9
	Level 3 One-sided explanation OR one explanation of both sides 5 to 6 marks More detailed explanation of one issue to be given two marks. e.g. 'I agree with this. Most people living in Italy did not think of themselves as Italians. They identified with their local area, town or state. There was never a great national uprising for unification and Mazzini and Young Italy never had a lot of support. Also, north and south had little in common, with the former regarding the latter as backward. The revolutions of 1848 were a total failure. There was a lack of cooperation between revolutionary groups, for example, Charles Albert would not work with other groups. There was no overall movement for unification. When unification was achieved it was because Piedmont wanted to control northern Italy and then events, which were opposed by Piedmont but led by Garibaldi, ended up with unification almost by mistake.' OR e.g. 'I do not think it was because there was little enthusiasm. There was strong Italian nationalism and there were a number of revolts. The Carbonari led one in Naples in 1820 and the people in Sicily also rose up. There were further revolutions in 1831. The problem was that Austrian power was too great. Young Italy, led by Mazzini, also shows there was support for unification. In the 1848 revolutions there were several uprisings. The trouble was that the Austrians and King Ferdinand were too strong. It wasn't that there was no nationalist enthusiasm. When unification was achieved, it was partly because of the popular movement led by Garibaldi who had become a national hero.'	4–6

	Level 1 One mark for each relevant point; additional mark for supporting detail e.g. 'The Spanish parliament was looking for a new monarch.' 'Prince Leopold was offered the Spanish crown.' 'Leopold accepted with the support of Bismarck.' 'The French were very annoyed because Leopold was related to King William of Prussia.' 'A German prince on the Spanish throne would alter the balance of power in Europe.' 'When he knew about the French reaction, William I persuaded Leopold to withdraw.' 'The French demanded a guarantee that Leopold's candidature would not be renewed but William refused.' 'Bismarck published an edited version of the Ems telegram that implied that the French Ambassador had been snubbed by William.' 'The French declared war on Prussia in July 1870.'	1–4

2(b)	Why did the 1848 revolution in Prussia fail?	6
	Level 4 Explains TWO reasons	6
	Level 3 Explains ONE reason (Four marks for one explanation, five marks for full explanation) e.g. ‘The revolution failed because the revolutionaries were never that strong. They only got as far as they did because of the dithering of Frederick William. If he had acted decisively at the beginning they would never had stood a chance. The landowners were against the revolution and the middle classes were disturbed by the violence in the streets and soon were separated from the more extreme elements. When the army finally took action, the counter-revolution was bloodless because the revolutionaries were too weak.’	4–5
	Level 2 Identifies AND/OR describes reasons (One mark for each identification/description) e.g. ‘The Junker landowners plotted to end the National Assembly because they were alarmed by it.’ ‘Frederick William dissolved the National Assembly and set up a constitution of his own.’ ‘The new constitution still gave most of the power to the King.’ ‘Frederick William remained popular throughout the revolution.’ ‘The army remained loyal to the King.’ ‘After 1848 the King was able to quietly do away with most of the reforms.’ ‘The middle classes were divided from more extreme revolutionaries.’	2–3

	Level 3 One-sided explanation OR one explanation of both sides 5 to 6 marks More detailed explanation of one issue to be given two marks. e.g. ‘I think that German nationalism was very important. German national feeling grew stronger after the war crisis of 1859 and led to the formation of the Nationalverein after a meeting of liberals from all over Germany. It was the first national political organisation in German history. The strength of German nationalism can also be seen through festivals where national feelings were strongly expressed, for example, celebrating victory at Waterloo. Nationalist feelings can also be seen in the Frankfurt Parliament in 1848 where there were demands for a united Germany. It is true to say that nationalist feelings were growing all the way through the nineteenth century.’ OR e.g. ‘German unification came about because of Bismarck’s diplomacy. Between 1862 and 1871 the map of Germany was radically altered and Bismarck led the events that brought this about. He used the issue of Schleswig-Holstein to provoke a war with Austria. This left only Prussia in a position to lead Germany. The North German Confederation under Prussian leadership followed. He then provoked a war with France which led to the rest of Germany being unified. Unification came about because of Bismarck’s diplomacy, not nationalism.’	4–6

3(b)	Why did the North want Reconstruction in the South?	6
	Level 4 Explains TWO reasons	6
	Level 3 Explains ONE reason (Four marks for one explanation, five marks for full explanation) e.g. 'It wanted this to restore the economy of the South. After the war the economy of the South was in ruins. Industries were destroyed and farms were in disrepair; 40% of the South's livestock had been destroyed. Transport was in ruins with railroads unable to move goods around. The cost of the war to the South was over $3 billion. The Confederate dollar was worthless and people had to barter. If the economy of the South did not recover, it would be even harder to integrate it back into the Union so it was a priority.'	4–5
	Level 2 Identifies AND/OR describes reasons (One mark for each identification/description) e.g. 'To integrate the Southern rebel states back into the Union.' 3(c)	'The main reason Lincoln fought the Civil War was to save the Union.' How far do you agree with this statement? Explain your answer.	10
	Level 5 Explains with evaluation As Level 4 plus evaluation.	10

	Level 3 One-sided explanation OR one explanation of both sides 5 to 6 marks More detailed explanation of one issue to be given two marks. e.g. 'I do not have any doubt that Lincoln fought the war to save the Union. The Confederate states had seceded from the Union and Lincoln was determined to reverse this. Lincoln was an American nationalist and wanted to preserve the 'great experiment'. For him, slavery was not the key issue and if the war had not happened, he probably would not have tried to abolish slavery as he did. He said that if he could save the Union without freeing a slave, he would. He was willing to save the Union at any cost. He said that he had taken an oath to serve the Union. He thought there was a threat to the Union because South Carolina, Mississippi and Alabama seceded. They thought they were standing up for their independence and for state's rights but Lincoln saw it as a threat to the Union.' OR e.g. 'I think he fought the Civil War over slavery. The secession of some Southern states would not have destroyed the Union. Some believed they would have returned. Others believed that concessions could have been made by the North over slavery but Lincoln would not do this. The issue that was dividing the USA was slavery. It was the only institution not shared by North and South. It was at the root of all tensions between them. Lincoln said that slavery was the cause of the war and it was the election of him as President, and his opposition to slavery, that led to the secessions. If Lincoln had been mainly worried about the Union, he could have saved it by changing his stance over slavery but he was willing to go to war over it.'	4–6

	Level 1 One mark for each relevant point; additional mark for supporting detail e.g. ‘Most parts of the world were under European control and Africa was one of the areas left so far unconquered.’ ‘After 1870 European nations began to acquire colonies in Africa.’ ‘There was a scramble for colonies in Africa.’ ‘There were rivalries, for example, between France and Italy over Tunis and between France and Germany over Morocco.’ ‘Germany was the last to join the race in Africa.’ ‘Britain had colonies in the south and dominated over Egypt and the Sudan.’ ‘France was focused on the north – Morocco, Tunisia and the Sahara.’ ‘The Belgians colonised the Congo region.’ ‘Portugal had Mozambique and Angola.’ ‘Germany took south-west Africa.’ ‘Italy took Somalia and Eritrea.’ ‘Rivalry in Africa led to the formation of alliances, for example, Italy turned to Germany when she lost Tunis to France.’ ‘The colonial rivalry in Africa helped intensify the arms race.’ ‘It lead to hostility between European powers, for example, France and Britain nearly came to war over the Sudan in 1898.’	1–4

4(b)	Why did the Balkan Wars of 1912 and 1913 have an important impact on relations between the Great Powers?	6
	Level 4 Explains TWO reasons	6
	Level 3 Explains ONE reason (Four marks for one explanation, five marks for full explanation) e.g. ‘These wars made relations between the Great Powers worse. Russia was always going to support Serbia which was in constant friction with Austria. When the Balkan League defeated Turkey in the First Balkan War, Russia had supported the League. The war also made Serbia stronger which led it to aim for a union of Southern Slav people. This frightened Austria which turned to Germany. The war also made Turkey look to Germany and Austria. All this made relations between Russia, on the one hand, and Germany and Austria on the other, worse. It also made Germany and Austria renew their alliance.’	4–5
	Level 2 Identifies AND/OR describes reasons (One mark for each identification/description) e.g. ‘Russia supported Serbia in its quarrels with Austria.’ ‘The First Balkan War increased tensions between Russia and Germany and Austria.’ ‘Germany would support Austria against Serbia.’ ‘The Alliance System had the potential of dragging in other countries such as France supporting Russia.’ ‘Austria was worried by the defeat of Turkey and turned more to Germany.’ ‘The First Balkan War led to a more confident Serbia with Russian support. This frightened Austria.’ ‘Russia saw the Balkan League as a toll against Austria.’ ‘Austria suspected Russia of whipping up the agitation of Austria’s Slav subjects.’ ‘The Second Balkan War was a blow to Russia because it marked the end of the Balkan League which was Russia’s defence against Austria.’ ‘After the Second Balkan War, Russia only had Serbia left as an ally so became closer to it which worried Austria.’ ‘Both Austria and Germany were concerned about the increase in Serbia’s territory and strength, especially because Serbia was a satellite of Russia.’ ‘Austrian and German concerns about a Russian-supported Serbia meant that the assassination of the heir to the Austrian throne in 1914 by Serbs would lead to war with Russia.’	2–3

	Level 3 One-sided explanation OR one explanation of both sides 5 to 6 marks More detailed explanation of one issue to be given two marks. e.g. ‘I think Germany was mainly responsible for the actual outbreak of war in August. Austria only sent the ultimatum to Serbia, one which they could not agree to, which made war inevitable, because they had been given a blank cheque by Germany. This was when Germany in July promised full support for Austria. German armies were ready to march if Russian armies moved. The Germans must have known that by giving Austria a free hand to invade Serbia, they were risking a European war. If there was war with Russia, then this would drag in France and perhaps Britain. If the Germans were taking the risk that Russia would not support Serbia, then it was a foolish risk. This means that Germany was to blame for the outbreak of war.’ OR e.g. ‘I think Britain was to blame for the outbreak of war. This is because it did not make its position clear to Germany in the months before. Germany thought that Britain had indicated that it would not intervene to help France and Russia. However, Britain had promised to defend Belgian neutrality and when Germany invaded, Britain went to war. If Germany had known that Britain would do this, then it would have done more to preserve peace and would not have supported Austria so much. Germany felt it had been tricked into war by Britain.’	4–6

	Level 3 One-sided explanation OR one explanation of both sides 5 to 6 marks More detailed explanation of one issue to be given two marks. e.g. 'Wilson was generally pleased with what had been achieved. He had managed to get some of the worst of Clemenceau's demands to be rejected. For example, the Rhineland was not going to be made into a separate state or given to France. It remained as part of Germany. This allowed Germany to remain as a major economic power and keep trading with the USA.' OR e.g. 'I think that Wilson would have been disappointed. He had gone into the negotiations with his 14 Points which he hoped would form the basis of the treaty. However, he was up against Britain and France, both of which had suffered badly during the war. They were not as keen on his points. One of the points was self-determination. This was only partly achieved. Britain and France took Germany's colonies, which was against self-determination. He also failed to gain other points such as every country reducing armaments and freedom of the seas. The problem was that Wilson, the idealist, was up against pragmatic politicians such as Lloyd George and Clemenceau who both wanted to get the best they could for their own countries.'	4–6

	Level 3 One-sided explanation OR one explanation of both sides 5 to 6 marks More detailed explanation of one issue to be given two marks. e.g. 'The League's response was not justified because it took far too long and then did nothing. It took ages to send the Lytton Commission which then took its time. Meanwhile the Japanese had invaded further and had dug in. In March 1932, long before the Commission reported, Japan had established the area it occupied as a puppet state called Manchukuo. The final report of the Commission ruled against Japan, but Japan simply ignored it and left the League. By this time there was nothing the League could do about the Japanese who were firmly established in Manchuria. None of this was justified. It took too long and let Japan get away with aggression.' OR e.g. 'I think the League was justified. It did the best it could. However, neither the Soviet Union nor the USA were members of the League and it had no army of its own. It was not able to put a military force together and even if it had, the problem was across the other side of the world where Japan was strong. Also the Japanese had dug themselves strongly into Manchuria and it would have needed an enormous effort to get them out. It was also difficult to use economic sanctions because the USA would not have been involved. This would have weakened the sanctions and would have given the US a chance to grab trade away from Europe.'	4–6

Economic factors were very important. Despite some reforms most people still had a very low standard of living. Villages lacked piped water, electricity and roads. There were few hospitals and many new-born babies died. Levels of illiteracy were very high. What made all this worse was that the gap between the rich and the poor was growing. The rich lived in luxurious palaces and the conspicuous spending of the Shah's family was an insult to ordinary people. Iran was a rich country but most of the people did not share in its wealth. This is why there was a revolution.' OR e.g. 'I do not think that economic factors were the main reason. The Shah's regime was hated for many reasons – political and economic. There was widespread opposition from many different kinds of groups – Islamic, Marxists, nationalists and liberals. The problem was that they had different grievances and were not united. A figurehead to unite the opposition was needed and this came in the form of Ayatollah Khomeini. He lived in exile and sent simple and clear messages into Iran outlining all the grievances. He was careful not to mention that he wanted to establish an Islamic government. Instead, he focused on things that everyone could agree about. This is because Britain imported 60% of its food. This made it vulnerable to blockades. Germany used U-boats to attack merchant ships bringing food and other goods to Britain. This was at its height in 1915 and again in 1917. This was very effective and in 1917 Britain was desperately short of food and had to introduce rationing. Food shortages could have easily led to Britain’s defeat. It managed to fight the U-boat threat by using convoys, mines and Q-ships and by the end of 1917 the threat was over. If it had not been beaten, then Britain could have been forced out of the war.’ OR e.g. ‘The Battle of Jutland was crucial. Although the Germans sank more ships, the German navy then retreated to German ports and never came out again. This left Britain in control of the North Sea and this allowed it to blockade Germany for the rest of the war. Neutral ships were searched for any goods that might help the German war effort, including food. This had an enormous impact on Germany’s armaments industry and gradually left the German people with little to eat. In 1917 there were food riots in Germany and it was close to collapse. This was all possible because the German navy retreated after the Battle of Jutland.’	4–6

Although the Putsch failed and Hitler was imprisoned, he turned the whole affair to his advantage. He was able to use the trial as a national platform for Nazi ideas and he gained enormous publicity with newspapers reporting him. This made him a national figure. He also learned the lessons of the Putsch and realised that the Nazis would have to use political methods in the future. The whole Nazi strategy was changed and this led to its eventual success.' OR e.g. 'I do not agree. The Putsch was a humiliating failure and it showed that the Nazis were a small pathetic group. When they marched into Munich they were easily defeated with just a minute of shooting! Hitler was slightly wounded and hid for most of the events. The whole event showed they had little support and were little more than a rabble. The leaders were arrested, put on trial and imprisoned.'	4–6

His position as General Secretary of the Party allowed him to do his plotting. He gradually put his supporters into positions of power in the Party and got rid of people more likely to support Trotsky. Stalin was regarded as rather dull and he deliberately stayed in the background, building up his support. At the Party Congress in 1924, he packed it with his supporters, allied with Bukharin to defeat Zinoviev and then turned on Bukharin.’ OR e.g. ‘I think Trotsky was to blame for Stalin becoming leader. 	Level 3 Explains ONE reason (Four marks for one explanation, five marks for full explanation) e.g. ‘The Second World War strengthened support for the Communists because they were seen as the ones who had successfully defended China against the Japanese. This won them the support of the peasants. They had used guerrilla-style tactics against the Japanese. They destroyed bridges and railways and ambushed the Japanese. This was in contrast to the reluctance of the Nationalists to fight the Japanese. When the war ended, the Communists had won the hearts and minds of the Chinese peasants.’	4–5

The problem they had was that they were based in Jiangxi province but the Nationalists were gradually encircling them using a series of blockhouses. Soon the Communists would be facing annihilation. They made the decision to escape and they then marched to Shaanxi. This was a very long march of 370 days over difficult ground. But it took them out of the grasp of the Nationalists and let them recover their strength. This is how it solved their problems.' OR e.g. 'The Long March did not solve all their problems. When they reached Yenan their numbers were down to 10 000 from the 80 000 that had started the march. They had been marching for 370 days and were exhausted. They needed time to recover their strength. Another problem was that Shaanxi province was under the control of warlords. Even Chiang had been unable to break their power and so the Communists had them to worry about too. It could be argued that all they had done was to retreat, that the Nationalists had got rid of the Communists from the south and were still in a position to wipe them out while they were weak.'	4–6

Up to 1945 South Africa’s economy grew quickly and this was due to gold mining. It provided many jobs and was the country’s main export. This brought in foreign exchange which could be used to buy oil and advanced technology goods. Also many other industries were stimulated by gold mining because machinery and equipment had to be made. It also boosted coal mining and railways. The industry also paid lots of taxes which helped pay for other things in the country.’ OR e.g. ‘I am not sure about this. Other industries were very important to South Africa’s development. The electricity industry expanded enormously. This was crucial to economic development because industries and transport needed the power. This led in 1976 to demonstrations by thousands of black school children against the government decisions that half their subjects should be taught in Afrikaans which was regarded as the language of oppression and white supremacy. Biko's idea was that black people should have pride and confidence in their own language and culture. The South African government reacted with great violence and news of this went round the world making the government even more unpopular.' OR e.g. 'I think the armed struggle carried out by the ANC was more important. The armed struggle was continued after Mandela was imprisoned in 1963. This was continued from their bases in nearby countries such as Mozambique and Angola. These countries were independent and were willing to support the ANC in its struggle. Training bases were set up and raids were made into South Africa such as the bomb explosion at an oil refinery in 1980. This led to the Palestinians getting the right to self-government in the Gaza Strip and the city of Jericho in the West Bank through the creation of the Palestinian Authority. This was not everything that the Palestinians wanted but was a major step towards an independent Palestinian state. This was achieved by the PLO.' OR e.g. 'For a long time the activities of the PLO did not really help the Palestinian cause.
