Qualifications and Jobs

Qualifications are important when applying for jobs. Employers place importance on the application form and so job applicants should complete this form to a satisfactory standard. They should return it before the deadline in order to be considered for an interview. Applicants will be placed on a shortlist and informed if they have been chosen for interview.

Some employees choose to join a trade union when they start work. Trade unions provide members with information on their rights and entitlements in the workplace and can sort out grievances and disputes for employees. However members may not agree with various decisions made by the trade union, especially if they have to go out on strike.
