Social Health

The work place provides an opportunity for people to meet and develop friendships. People who work together may also discuss a common interest such as sport or music which may help improve a person's social health.

Exercise is a good way of socialising with other young people and enjoying the benefits of getting fitter and feeling better.

Young people need to be very careful about how much they drink as too much alcohol may cause accidents or injuries to others. A young person may have a feeling of a hangover which may prevent attendance at work or college. Alcohol has many physical and emotional effects so young people should drink sensibly.
