[50]

After the death of his son Drusus, Tiberius left Rome and never returned. He planned to live on Capri, where he had had a magnificent palace constructed at the very end of the island. He particularly liked this place because it was surrounded by high cliffs and could only be reached from one tiny harbour. There is a story that a fisherman once climbed with great effort to the top of the cliffs, carrying a huge mullet to offer the emperor as a gift. Tiberius, however, was so worried that this path would be revealed to everyone that he rubbed the poor man's face with the fish. Wounded by its sharp scales, he cried, 'Thank heavens that I didn't bring the lobster I caught yesterday.' Tiberius immediately ordered the lobster to be fetched too and he used it in the same way.
