SECTION B – Research design and response

A QUESTION OF MORALITY

How do young children know right from wrong, what is good or bad or kind or unkind? Are there some things that are common to all children that underpin our sense of morality and shape the way we think about such things? The only way psychologists can investigate people's thoughts about such things is to ask them questions using the self-report method.

SECTION C – Data analysis and interpretation

EXERCISE YOUR STRESS

Stress affects many people, probably everyone at some stage of their life, and can be damaging to our health if it reaches a high level over a continuous period. Psychologists interested in finding ways to control and manage stress have investigated the correlation between exercise and stress by getting a group of ten volunteers to record the average amount of exercise taken each month and comparing this to the amount of stress experienced during the same period. The data obtained is presented in the table opposite.

Participant	Average number of hours exercise taken each month	Stress rating (0 = 'none' to 100 'high')
