3 Oakfield Park Medical Centre has recently received complaints from patients.

Patients have complained about:

the way they are spoken to – a lack of respect and politeness from staff older patients feel patronised – treated as though they are stupid and incapable no privacy – having to explain why they need an appointment at the reception desk where they can be overheard patients in wheelchairs find it difficult to access the medical centre.

(a) To help avoid future complaints from patients, the manager of Oakfield Park Medical Centre has arranged training for the staff on being a ‘reflective practitioner’.

Explain how being a reflective practitioner could improve the daily practice of health care practitioners at Oakfield Park Medical Centre. [6]
