

Oxford Cambridge and RSA

Thursday 19 November 2020 – Morning

GCSE (9–1) History A (Explaining the Modern World)

J410/12 The English Reformation c.1520–c.1550

with Castles: Form and Function c.1000–1750

Time allowed: 1 hour 15 minutes

You must have:

- the OCR 12-page Answer Booklet

INSTRUCTIONS

- Use black ink.
- Write your answer to each question in the Answer Booklet. The question numbers must be clearly shown.
- Fill in the boxes on the front of the Answer Booklet.
- Answer all the questions.

INFORMATION

- The total mark for this paper is 55.
- The marks for each question are shown in brackets [].
- Spelling, punctuation and grammar (SPaG) and the use of specialist terminology will be assessed in questions marked with a pencil (✎).
- This document has 8 pages.

ADVICE

- Read each question carefully before you start your answer.

Section A

The English Reformation c.1520–c.1550

Answer all the questions.

You are advised to spend about 45 minutes on this section.

1 Explain why some people protested against the dissolution of the monasteries. [10]

2 Study Sources A–C.

‘Priests and churchmen were well respected in England during the 1520s.’ How far do Sources A–C convince you that this statement is correct? Use the sources and your knowledge to explain your answer.

[20]

() Spelling, punctuation and grammar and the use of specialist terminology [5]

Source A

I, Ralph Shelton, commend my soul into the hands of the Holy Trinity: the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost.

I wish my body to be buried in Saint Thomas of Acres church in my father's vault. I ask my executors to find an honest priest of good reputation and name to sing mass daily for ten years following my death. This priest will receive a fee of £7 per year.

An extract from the will of Ralph Shelton, a cloth trader, in 1522. An executor is a person appointed to carry out the wishes expressed in a will.

Source B

Our priests in England are as good as, or in fact far better, than those in any other country in learning, in honesty, goodness and holiness. But they are watched more closely than any others. If they keep few servants, we call them misers who will not provide work. If they keep many servants, we accuse them of showing off.

Where we see good priests at work, we take little notice. But when we see just once an evil deed, we stare and tell all we can about it. Let a good priest preach, and news of it will not travel. But let one friar be caught with a woman, we will criticise all the year after, and say, ‘What a terrible example they are setting!’

Thomas More writing in 1528 in a book called ‘A Dialogue Concerning Heresies’. Thomas More was a lawyer, a Member of Parliament and in 1529 became Lord Chancellor, one of the most senior positions in Henry VIII's government.

Source C

As soon as the Members of Parliament assembled they all began to complain about the clergy and priests and how they were no longer true men of God. They complained that the priests oppressed people, demanding excessive amounts of money for performing burials and other services. They complained that priests and abbots were keeping their own businesses and damaging the trade of the merchants of the towns. There were complaints that priests were not helping the poor like they should and neglecting to give the people of their parishes proper preaching and instruction in God's word.

An account of the Parliament of 1529 by Edward Hall. Hall was an MP and a successful London lawyer. He was a close friend of Thomas Cromwell and was made Sheriff of London in 1535.

Please turn over for Section B

Section BCastles: Form and Function c.1000–1750

Answer all the questions.

You are advised to spend about 30 minutes on this section.

3 Explain why Kenilworth Castle changed in the 1600s. [10]

4 Study Sources D and E.

Which of these sources is more useful to a historian studying the history of Kenilworth Castle between 1100 and 1300? [10]

Source D

The King realised he had to crush the rebels in Kenilworth Castle or they would cause huge trouble. Every day the rebels destroyed surrounding land, for Kenilworth was in the middle of the kingdom and was a mighty castle. To end this threat the king taxed his subjects £19 000 for an army. There were many men, and they held 60 000 crossbow bolts and 20 000 wooden hurdles. Nine siege engines were also brought to the castle and fired stone missiles at the castle day and night. The King's tower was enormous and contained 200 crossbowmen.

A description of the siege of Kenilworth Castle in 1266, from a chronicle called the Annal of Osney Abbey, published around 1300.

Source E

A recent photograph of the remains of Mortimer's Tower, the main gatehouse to Kenilworth Castle, which was built in King John's reign.

END OF QUESTION PAPER

BLANK PAGE

BLANK PAGE

OCR

Oxford Cambridge and RSA

Copyright Information

OCR is committed to seeking permission to reproduce all third-party content that it uses in its assessment materials. OCR has attempted to identify and contact all copyright holders whose work is used in this paper. To avoid the issue of disclosure of answer-related information to candidates, all copyright acknowledgements are reproduced in the OCR Copyright Acknowledgements Booklet. This is produced for each series of examinations and is freely available to download from our public website (www.ocr.org.uk) after the live examination series.

If OCR has unwittingly failed to correctly acknowledge or clear any third-party content in this assessment material, OCR will be happy to correct its mistake at the earliest possible opportunity.

For queries or further information please contact The OCR Copyright Team, The Triangle Building, Shaftesbury Road, Cambridge CB2 8EA.

OCR is part of the Cambridge Assessment Group; Cambridge Assessment is the brand name of University of Cambridge Local Examinations Syndicate (UCLES), which is itself a department of the University of Cambridge.