Study these two sources which refer to the impact of air travel from the 1960s to the present day and answer the question which follows.

Source B

British people loved this new thing of flying abroad to Spain. You went up into the clouds and the next thing you knew you were in this lovely hot country. I remember it took about as long to fly there as it used to take us to get to the seaside by car!

[A British man remembers his flights to Spain in the 1960s, in an article on the BBC News website, 2004]

Source C

Travel by air is the fastest growing cause of global warming. As a result, more than 50% of the world's coral reefs are at risk. For example, Discovery Bay in Jamaica used to have corals covering 50% of its surface area 30 years ago, now corals cover less than 2%.

[From a report on air travel by Climate Care, an environmental campaign group, in 2010]

- (c) Why do Sources B and C have different views about the impact of air travel from the 1960s to the present day? [8]

In your answer you should refer to the content and authorship of the sources.
